DJ Sam kept the dance floor packed all night long! He was incredibly helpful, kind, and easy to reach during the planning phase, and the day of he was just perfect. We were kind of particular about the music at the wedding, and he really respected our wishes and worked with us on a personal level. I feel like he really cared about our vision for our wedding. We couldn't have made a better decision with our DJ. Thank you, DJ Sam! Other couples, look no farther, we are sure this will be a great decision!

MEET YOUR RECEPTION ENTERTAINMENT DIRECTOR

DJ Sam

Truly a professional, "Sam" has an outstanding resume with extensive Wedding experience and a seasoned entertainer. This DJ is in extremely high demand.

He began his career in Gloucester, England more than 25 years ago as a mobile and night club DJ; in 1979 he was winner of the Grand Disco DJ Championship. After coming to the US in 1981, he became a popular air personality on 1480 AM WKND. He has also appeared on WFSB, Channel 3, and CPTV.

With a silky smooth radio voice and a great personality, Sam is right for the person who wants it all: style, sophistication, versatility, an ultra classy performance and an uncanny sense of music that just fits perfectly all the time and feels so good, this is the man to have at your party.....nothing else compares, guaranteed.

Sam's ability to read the crowd and mix the right music is impeccable. With his English background and natural elegance and class, there is no better choice. If you're looking to please and impress not only yourself, but everyone else at your event, there is no better choice. Make the right choice and be ready to dance!

DJ Michael

Michael James joins Atmosphere Productions with over 10 years experience as a wedding DJ and an extensive career in the music business as a singer, recording artist and radio DJ.

At the age of nine, Michael James, started his professional singing career with The Interfaith Boys Choir based in Waterbury, Connecticut. He expanded his music career as lead vocalist and for the RCA recording artist "Lothlorien" from 1980-1986 and from 1988 -1992 with a group called "Extortion". Michael James then transitioned into a traditional wedding singer and also produced his own radio show on WAPJ from 2000-2003.

With his outgoing personality, meticulous detail and vast musical knowledge, Michael James is sure to add a touch of class and elegance to the success of your event.

A Typical Wedding Day Timeline

5:30 pm	Wedding Ceremony Commences
6:00 pm	Your DJ arrives at banquet facility to set up and do a sound check. Your DJ reviews details with banquet manager as you have indicated on our wedding questionnaire.
7:00 pm	Social/Cocktail Hour Begins. Your guests enjoy drinks and Hors D'oeuvres while you are taking formal photos. Music of your choice is playing in the background to help set the tone for your celebration.
7:45 pm	Your photographer and videographer arrive at the banquet facility. Your DJ reviews the order of events with them so that they are prepared.
8:00 pm	Social hour ends. Your guests are seated. Your DJ lines up parents and bridal party for introductions. As he reviews name pronunciations with each person, he coaches everyone, telling them where they will walk and to pause for the photographer as they enter the room. He acknowledges any grandparents over the microphone before introducing in parents and bridal party. Your guests are asked to please rise before the two of you enter the room. Your grand entrance is accompanied by the music of your choice and a rousing applause from your guests.
8:15 pm	Immediately following your grand entrance, you are invited onto the dance floor for your first dance. As you step onto the dance floor, the music starts and all eyes are on the two of you as you are lost in the romance of the evening. Part way through your first dance, your bridal party circles around you as they join in.
8:20 pm	As your first dance fades, you transition up to your place at the head table. Your DJ has strategically placed a wireless microphone for the blessing and toast. Your DJ will ask for the two of you to remain seated as your guests rise with glass in hand for the best man's toast. Once your best man has made his speech, everyone is invited to be seated for dinner.
9:15 pm	As dinner winds down, the music starts to come up from background level. The tone is being set for dancing the night away. Your DJ will approach you to make sure that you are ready for cake cutting and parent dances. We will also inform your parents and photographer, videographer and banquet staff of our intentions to cut the cake so that everyone is in place and ready to go.
9:30 pm	The announcement is made that the two of you are ready to cut the cake. Your guests gather around as you feed each other a small piece of cake. A plate, fork and linen napkin have been placed on the cake table for your convenience. Bride and father are invited to the dance floor as their song begins to play. Groom and mother are next on the dance floor. Guests give a warm applause as they are invited to join for the next song—dancing has begun. The night is filled with your pre-selected music choices and requests from your guests. We will avoid playing the songs that you have placed on your "no play" list. If you have requested, the anniversary dance, bouquet toss or other announcements will be made at the appropriate time.
12:00 am	As your wedding day comes to a close, your guests gather around to congratulate you and thank you for a lovely time.

This is a typical wedding—your Disc Jockey will customize your wedding day based on the way the two of you envision your day and the flow of events. We will help you make a memorable and unique event that will flow seamlessly as you and your guests dance and socialize.

Atmosphere Productions

Gone are the days of police beacons, strobe lights and flashing colored light bulbs.

Currently there are many high tech options for lighting your wedding reception ballroom. Custom lighting options include up-lighting, down-lighting and architectural lighting.

Why not Spotlight your First Dance with white L.E.D illuminating your stunning wedding dress. Why not see Your Name In Lights.....

Light your sweetheart table or head table, cake table or all of your guest tables from below. Very unique and unforgettable effects are available. Atmosphere Productions can create these type of soft atmosphere lighting within your event space. Ask us about the possibilities of club style or color scheme lighting.

From Top 40 to classic oldies and integrating family traditions, we have it all. We will always work with you in customizing the songs at your wedding.

5 THINGS YOUR GUESTS WON'T TELL YOU

I remember hearing Colin Cowie speak to a group of Wedding Planners in NYC. He said that he tells his couples (who are spending millions on their weddings) that it's not really their wedding. It's their first chance, as a married couple, to host a party for their friends and family. That surprised me as we always think of weddings as being for and about the couple. The ceremony is definitely for and about the couple. The party that follows is a celebration of that marriage, with your closest family and friends.

If you accept that perspective, what would you do differently? If you've been a guest at one, or more weddings, what would you have liked to have told the newly married couple, but you couldn't (or you and other guests just told each other, quietly at the table or afterwards)? Here are 5 things that your guests won't tell you (unless they're brutally honest or blunt).

1 Your guests won't thank you for making your mom, sister, best friend or maid of honor work on your wedding day. They're not wedding planners. They're your closest family and friends. Let them mingle, dance and enjoy the day.

2 Your guests won't thank you for making them wait while you take pictures. Sure, they'll eat, they'll drink, but if it takes too long they'll start wondering where you are. They were invited to celebrate with you.

3 Your guests won't tell you that you put way too many things on your wedding registry. Make it easy for them to buy you the things that you really want. It's hard for guests to know which things you really want (like a beautiful honeymoon, fire pit or down payment on a house), when there are 250 items on there. Give them the option to contribute dollars towards your registry so you can choose how to use it. Also, understand that a gift should not be required. You invited them to share your wedding day, not to necessarily have to pay for the privilege. If they want to give a gift, make it easy.

4 Your guests want to see, and hear your ceremony. Ask them to stay in their seats so everyone else can see. If you've hired professional photographer and videographer (real, experienced professionals), and you share the photos with them (easy enough to do with online proofing these days), they'll all be able to see and hear you taking your vows. Have someone ask everyone to turn off his or her ringers as well. You don't want to hear a phone ringing on your wedding video. Everyone has a camera phone, but that doesn't make him or her a professional. Don't let them get in the way. You're investing good money in professional photos.

5 Your guests won't thank you for hiring the cheapest wedding vendors. They don't care how much you paid; they only care about what they see and experience. An iPod is not a DJ. Your uncle is not a professional videographer and won't know where to stand, to not be in everyone's way. That Craig's List vendor you hired is cheap for a reason. Don't hire cheap. Hire the best value. Follow your priorities and invest in them. You won't be happy when the photos aren't what you wanted or the dance floor is empty.

You know what it's like to be a guest at a wedding, remember that when making your choices. If it's summer time, make sure there's shade for your outdoor ceremony. Make sure there's air conditioning. Don't just pray that it won't rain, or won't be 110 degrees... have a real plan for it. Put yourself in the shoes of your 100, 200 or more guests and have them raving to you about how great everything was. You don't always get kudos for doing it right, but you almost always lose points for doing it wrong. I wish you, and your guests, a very happy wedding. 🍷
